higher quality food.

NOT ALL FOODS ARE CREATED EQUAL

The food you feed your pet has a major effect on their overall health and wellbeing. Not all pet food is created equal, and feeding them a higher quality food can play an active role in keeping your pet healthy and happy.

At Petbarn, we know that the food we choose counts. That's why we're here to help you find the best food to support your pet's needs.

WHY CHOOSE HIGH QUALITY FOOD?

- Vitamin-rich and nutritionally dense food that is more digestible, giving your pet maximum nutrition from a smaller serve, resulting in smaller, firmer stools
- Guaranteed levels of quality protein, fats and carbohydrates so you know exactly what ingredients are in your pet's food
- They're specially formulated for different breeds, ages, sizes, lifestyles and health conditions
- Packed full of omega 3 fatty acids, which encourage a shiny coat and healthy skin
- They're a source of dietary fibre, which boosts digestive health
- Contains DHA to enhance brain and vision functions

HOW TO ENSURE YOU'RE FEEDING THE BEST QUALITY FOOD

Understanding what's in your pet's food can help you determine quality and make choosing the right product easier. Here's a guide on what to look out for on the back of each pack.

STEP ONE: Choose the most appropriate food for your pet based on their age, breed, size and shape.

STEP TWO: Look at the first 3 ingredients and identify the protein source(s). Specifically named animal based protein indicates a consistent higher quality.

STEP THREE: Use the nutrition information panel on the back of pack which will tell you the foods' overall protein and fat levels as well as nutrients.

STEP FOUR: Look for ingredients that deliver omega fatty acids, dietary fibre that further support skin, coat and intestinal health.

Higher quality foods contain:

- Nutrient dense formulas
- High quality protein sources that are highly digestible
- Wholefood carbohydrate blends
- Added omega fatty acids, dietary fibre and prebiotics
